More Choices in Long Beach

To ensure that Long Beach residents continue to have community access to quality health care, Mount Sinai South Nassau Long Beach Primary Care is an academic medical practice that provides comprehensive, patient-centered primary care.

As an academic medical practice, patients see board certified physicians who specialize in internal medicine and/or resident physicians under their supervision. Nurses, coordinators and other staff members work together as a team to provide services to adolescents ages 15 and older, adults and seniors.

Telehealth Services

Telehealth services are offered at Long Beach Primary Care and are available by either phone or computer videoconference.

Only established patients are seen using Telehealth, which can be used for follow-up visits, prescription refills or other requests that do not require in-person consultation. An initial in-person visit with the practitioner is required for new patients, prior to enrolling in the Telehealth program.

The facility offers technologies for optimal care and personalized treatment plans including:

- Routine physical exams
- Same-day sick visits
- Well woman exams
- Adolescent care (ages 15 and older)
- Employment physicals
- Geriatric care
- Preventive medicine
- Emergency room follow-up visits
- On-site Laboratory & EKG services
- Hypertension screening
- Asthma screening
- Osteopathic manipulation
- Lifestyle education
- HIV care in addition to PrEP
- Pre-operative exams
- COVID-19 testing and antibody testing
- Perform and arrange for cancer screenings
- Provide referrals to board certified subspecialists for advanced care and surgical procedures

We accept most major insurances.

We also offer assistance in applying for free care or care at reduced rates through Mount Sinai South Nassau's Financial Assistance Program.
