Breastfeeding Benefits Aren't Just for Babies

Besides the convenience associated with nursing a baby, breastfeeding offers long-term benefits for both baby and mom.

- According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, breast milk is the ideal food for infants.
 - It provides superior nutrition and immunological protection, while decreasing the risk of a number of acute and chronic diseases.
- Mothers who choose to nurse their infant benefit in many ways:
 - Recent research demonstrates that breastfeeding may play a role in reducing a woman's risk for premenopausal breast cancer, ovarian cancer and osteoporosis.
 - An additional advantage of breastfeeding an infant is the cost savings compared to formula feeding.
