We recommend that you also take time to review Mount Sinai’s Notice for information about how your protected health information (PHI) may generally be used and disclosed by Mount Sinai. Mount Sinai’s Notice also provides information about how you may obtain access to your PHI, including confidential genetic information.

Under New York State (NYS) law, special restrictions apply to (1) genetic testing of human biological samples and (2) the disclosure of information derived from genetic tests to any person or organization. Genetic test means any laboratory test of DNA, chromosomes, genes or gene products to detect a genetic variation linked to a predisposition to a genetic disease. It does not include information relating to a manifested disease (a disease that can be diagnosed primarily based on symptoms) or information obtained when confirming a disease with genetic testing.

Mount Sinai will not perform a genetic test on a biological sample taken from you unless Mount Sinai obtains your written informed consent under NYS law. With your informed consent, Mount Sinai may use the results of your genetic test for treatment, payment, and healthcare operations (See Notice p. 3). Any other uses or disclosures of the results of your genetic test will generally require your written authorization. This authorization is separate from, and may not be combined with, the informed consent. Authorization is not required if:

• The disclosure is to a person who is authorized to make healthcare decisions on your behalf and the information disclosed is needed by that person to make his/her decisions;
• The disclosure is made to a qualified service organization that performs certain treatment services (such as lab analyses) or to a Business Associate (BA) who needs it to assist us with obtaining payment or carrying out our business operations. Mount Sinai will obtain the qualified service organization or BA’s agreement in writing to protect the privacy and confidentiality of your information in accordance with Federal and State law;
• The disclosure is required or allowed by law or court order;
• Mount Sinai’s Institutional Review Board has decided to allow the disclosure of information obtained about you from genetic tests on your stored tissue, or information which links you with specific test results and you have signed either a Research Authorization form or a Consent to Release Genetic Information Form under NY Civil Rights Law §§ 79-l (3) (a) and 79-l (9) (d).

If you provide written authorization to participate in a Health Information Exchange (HIE), all of your records will be made available including genetic information. If you do not agree to such disclosure, you should not agree to participate in an HIE.

Violation of these privacy regulations may subject Mount Sinai to civil or criminal penalties. Suspected violations may be reported to appropriate authorities in accordance with Federal and State law.
